WARRANTY

The warranty period is 12 months from the date of supply. The warranty covers manufacturing faults and faults in the materials used. When a material or manufacturing fault arises, the vendor undertakes to carry out a repair under warranty providing the goods in question are sent during the warranty period to the repair location indicated by the vendor. The vendor undertakes to rectify a fault, at its own discretion, either by repairing the defective goods or by sending new, fault-free goods to the buyer at no extra charge.

If the fault has to be repaired or the appliance has to be replaced outside the vendor's servicing location or place of manufacture, the buyer must pay the travel expenses or daily allowances arising from this.

The buyer is not entitled to demand compensation for direct or indirect losses caused by faulty goods, including damages caused to others by the vendor's supply. The vendor grants a one-month service guarantee for repairs to the appliance performed outside the warranty.
